Problem 1: Find an academic paper of MEMS-related research or an industrial MEMS product and come prepared to give a five-minute presentation in class about the material you learned. Remember to include references for all the material you use.